Contract Opportunity: Product Designer

About Graphika

Graphika empowers the world to understand and navigate the Cybersocial Terrain. We create large-scale, in-depth maps of social media landscapes and conversations to discover how communities form online and how influence and information flow within large scale networks. Our interdisciplinary team uses our unique, patented set of technologies and tools to create and apply new, rigorous analytical methods to answer difficult questions about online conversations.

Overview

Graphika seeks a contract Product Designer to oversee the design and development of a dashboard for one of our analytical products. The Product Designer will translate complex data into consumable insights for a range of users and audiences. The process will involve partnering with the Product Manager to design and document user flows and create clickable prototypes as a part of an iterative process.

Who You Are

Candidates should have experience working with massive amounts of data, preferably social data, in a web environment (not mobile) and are comfortable with collaborating with engineers.

The Details

The project will last approximately 3 months, and we aim to begin on Monday, February 1, 2021. Pay will be a fixed rate for the project, as time spent will vary significantly throughout the life of the design process.

Designers should be available for synchronous work during the US East Coast work day, appx 10am - 5pm. We expect the bulk of the synchronous work to happen in the early weeks of the project.

How to Apply

Please send a portfolio, resume, and a brief note about yourself to sarah.braver@graphika.com and rahul.sharma@graphika.com by Friday, January 21, 2021 in order to be considered for the opportunity. If you meet the criteria, we will reach out to schedule a short portfolio review and product demo.
